

PLEASE — Reducing Emotional Vulnerability

Greater Nashua Mental Health Center

Instructions: PLEASE is a DBT emotion-regulation skill that reduces emotional vulnerability by caring for your body. Track these basics for one week — when the body is depleted, emotions hit harder.

PL — Treat Physical illness

Take prescribed medication; see a doctor when needed. Untreated illness lowers emotional resilience.

E — Balanced Eating

Eat regularly and in a balanced way; avoid foods that make you feel overly emotional.

A — Avoid mood-Altering substances

Stay off non-prescribed drugs and limit alcohol — they destabilize mood and impair coping.

S — Balanced Sleep

Aim for the hours your body needs; keep a consistent sleep/wake schedule.

E — Exercise

Get some movement most days; even a short walk builds mastery and lifts mood.
