

Grief Processing & Continuing Bonds

Greater Nashua Mental Health Center

Instructions: Grief is love with nowhere to go — it has no fixed timeline or 'stages' to complete. 'Continuing bonds' means staying connected to who or what you lost in a way that honors them, rather than 'letting go'. Use this sheet gently and at your own pace.

Who or what I am grieving:

Remembering

A memory I treasure:

Something they taught me or that I carry forward from them:

Continuing the bond

Ways I can stay connected (rituals, talking to them, an object, a place, their values):

Something I wish I could say to them now:

Caring for myself in grief

What do I need today — and who can support me?
