

Anxiety/Fear Hierarchy Ladder

Greater Nashua Mental Health Center

Instructions: Graded exposure therapy works by gradually confronting feared situations, starting with the least anxiety-provoking and working up. Use the SUDS (Subjective Units of Distress Scale, 0–100) to rate your anxiety for each situation. Write your ultimate goal at the top, then fill in the ladder from bottom (easiest) to top (hardest). Work with your clinician to practice each rung before moving up.

My Goal: _____

Rung	Feared Situation	SUDS (0-100)
#10 (hardest)
#9
#8
#7
#6
#5
#4
#3
#2
#1 (easiest)

Exposure Practice Log

Record each exposure practice session. Note the rung attempted, your SUDS before and after, and what you learned.

Date	Rung #	Situation Practiced	SUDS Before	SUDS After	What I Learned
